

About the Foundation

Since 1972, the Texas A&M University-Kingsville Foundation, Inc. has worked hand-in-hand with the University to provide the private philanthropic resources necessary so that students from South Texas and beyond receive the highest quality educational experience.

The Foundation exists to support Texas A&M-Kingsville and its mission of teaching, research, and service in South Texas for the advancement of knowledge and of regional development. As a source of private funding, the TAMUK Foundation:

- Manages more than $45 million in endowments in support of scholarships, research, programs and faculty,
- Currently holds more than $60 million in total assets through investments, cash, real-estate and in-kind contributions,
- Is a non-profit corporation, receiving charter from the State of Texas, and classified as a 501 (c)(3) tax exempt organization by the Internal Revenue Service,
- Partners with donors to expand the culture of philanthropy and private contributions to enhance the mission of Texas A&M-Kingsville.
